OUTLAWRY IS HAMPERING MOVEMENT OF RIVER FREIGHT

Some Firms Forced To Send Guards With Cargo

RATE WAR NEAR

Jardine And Butterfield Boats To Cut Into Japanese Field

BY DAVID ARAKIE

The freight position is practically without important features. The lack of demand for the products of China has brought about a state of dullness. The situation is aggravated to some extent by the disorganisation of transport in the interior parts of the country making transit of merchandise to the important ports of shipments a hazardous undertaking.

For instance, it might not be known that many exporting firms at Hankow are sending foreign representatives as far as Ichang and Chungking to escort their cargo to Hankow. These foreign representatives of the exporting houses accompany their cargo from up-river points to Hankow. This is a most unusual proceeding on the part of these merchants, and never been known to have been adopted before.

The unsettled state of the country and the seizure of merchandise by the lawless soldiery have been impeding the flow of supplies to the centers of export. The step was prompted by the fact that orders had been accumulating and could not be fulfilled owing to extremely curtailed arrivals.

TRADE BETTER

Trade along the Yangtsze has been more favorable. Recently there have been big shipments of ore in bulk and wood oil from Hankow and up-river ports. There is a brisk shipment of bean oil from Dairy, both in bulk and in casks. Ts'ingtau has been fairly active in peanuts. From Shanghai there have been going out large quantities of hides destined to the Mediterranean ports, and feathers, ores, oils and some raw cotton have been moving to North Continental ports. Vessels calling at Rotterdam and Hamburg are fairly full with merchandise. Shipments from Tientsin appear to be slack, while the outward cargo from the Phillipines comprise at present mainly hemp and copra.

News of a severe rate war in freights to be inaugurated very shortly comes from Chungking. The Japanese vessels have been offering comparatively cheaper rates and been obtaining a fair amount of the Ichang-Chungking cargo. It is expected that Jardine and Butterfield boats will try and cut into this game very soon, and the up-river services will probably be the scene of a little freight battle.

An interesting development in the shipping world is the announcement that the Japanese tramp owners have formed a pool to maintain higher rates. This has served to introduce a feeling of strength into the local freight market.

These tramp rates are being maintained secretly. A conference of these owners takes place twice a week. There have been recently larger arrivals of coal from Japan but new contracts for additional supplies are small, owing to the higher freights demanded by the owners of vessels and the reluctance of the buyers to meet these. Thus a state of stagnancy prevails.

PIG IRON SHIPMENTS

Pig iron is going out in larger amounts to Japan from Haiyingpun. Three steamers take the commodity every month to Osaka and Nagoya, full to the brim. Owing to the unfavorable conditions in the interior the shipments of salt from Haichow have been interfered with.

The freight market in the South is passing through a quiet period on account of the unsettled state of Canton, which has been dislocating chartering business in general. There is very little demand for tonnage on timecharters. In fact rates offering are lower than previously, but the

Local Shipping Company In Damning Indictment Of Hongkong Government

Chairman Of Moller And Co., At Winding-Up Session, Declares Colony Strangled Old Firm To Death In Profiteering Program; C. R. Burkill Agrees

The extraordinary meeting held yesterday to wind up Moller and Co. (Shanghai), Ltd., was marked by one of the most sensational and scathing indictments of governmental profiteering in history. The meeting recorded the end of an institution that had done service as shipping carriers in Chinese waters for half a century, and which, on Mr. Eric Moller's showing, has been throttled to death by the profiteering propensities of the Hongkong Government.

The Chairman delivered a broadside that unquestionably will be heard in Parliament. The history of the Hongkong Government's Shipping Control has been the subject of adverse criticism before, and on Mr. Moller's showing of yesterday, Parliament, it would certainly appear, has an unpleasant but imperatively necessary duty to perform.

The meeting of the shareholders of this company was held at the offices of the company, No. 1 The Bund, Mr. Eric Moller presiding. There were present as well Mr. C. R. Burkill, Mr. A. McLure, of Messrs. Seth Mancell and McLure, and Mr. T. Emamoodeen, the secretary, and 999 shares, out of a total of 1,000, were represented.

STATES THE CASE

The chairman in proposing the resolution for the voluntary winding up of the company, placed before those present the facts which have brought about the Liquidation, and said:

"Gentlemen, It was with the deepest regret that your Board decided to summon you here today for the purposes of considering and passing a resolution for the voluntary winding-up of the Company. In particular is this regret felt by myself, as it is just 65 years ago, in June, 1858 that my late father, Mr. Nils Moller, commenced the building up and development of a small and conservative business of shipowners of which your Company was the outcome.

"In the early days of the firm the ships operated by it on the China coast were all sailing ships. As time passed on your present chairman entered the firm in 1891, and he foresaw the early elimination of sail on this coast and the necessity of replacement by steam tonnage. The business was accordingly developed in this direction in a quiet unassuming manner, so that some years previous to the time of the incorporation of your Company in 1918 a fleet of nine steamers had taken the place of the old sailing ships.

NINE SHIPS IN FLEET

"These were as follows: Sagittarius, 3,650 tons; Gemini, 3,250 tons; Castlefield, 1,850 tons; Peregrine, 2,200 tons; Moresby, 2,150 tons; Shanghai, 650 tons; Manapouri, 2,200 tons; Kaho, 1,750 tons; Wollowra, 3,300 tons —this latter vessel being a joint interest.

"Under legal advice separate companies were registered to own and carry on the business of each of the above steamers as well as of the firm's local office, but, as was only natural where interests are nearly identical, the workings of the companies became intermingled and entwined so that losses sustained by some of them were acutely felt by the others.

"As the late war progressed the tonnage question became acute, and five of the above fleet of steamers were either sent or taken Home for the Allied cause. These were the Sagittarius, Gemini, Moresby, Peregrine and Shanghai, the first four vessels loading rice at Saigon for France for the Allies and the last named at Rangoon.

FOUR LOST BY WAR

"Eventually four of these steamers were either lost or struck out of the fleet by submarine and other causes of the war. And when I explain to you that these vessels were originally bought on a silver basis of 2s. 6d. to the tael and that the obligations of their respective owners were on a similar silver basis, you will readily understand the utter impossibilitity of running them at a profit in Home Waters at the exchanges which ruled subsequently. The losses on these vessels were enormous, and today your chairman has nothing whatsoever to show for this part of the fleet. At the same time he expresses and has no regrets whatsoever on this point, as whatever property we could place at the disposal of the Allied cause was willingly and gladly placed in every instance.

"In spite of the losses above mentioned, reserves at the disposal of the several companies, though slight, left a sufficient margin to enable them to meet all obligations. Unfortunately, however, our losses did not stop at that point, and this leads me to the crux of our present trouble and the reason which has made it necessary to propose this resolution this morning. In this connection I feel that an explanation of this regrettable step is not only due to shareholders of the Company but to our many business friends and clients, both foreign and Chinese, some of whom are of very long standing.

COLONY TAKES VESSELS

"In the first place you must know that the steamers still remaining in these waters, viz., the Castlefield (since re-named Ralph Moller), Manapouri (since re-named Lindsay Moller) and the Wollowra were, about the month of March, 1918, commandeered and taken over by the Hongkong Government for purposes neither connected with the War nor with the defence of the Colony. Instead of using these vessels for War purposes, to which course the owners would

'GIVE AND GET' IS TO BE SLOGAN IN CHURCH DRIVE

Campaign Begins Officially At Noon Today

"Give and Get" will be suggested as a slogan for the drive to raise Tls. 65,000 for the Community Church which begins officially at noon today. Church leaders have recommended to the captains and members of the various teams that the getting must be preceded by giving. A member of the campaign advisory committee put it this way:

"Before the member of a team can qualify for good service he must himself make a substantial subscription. This is essential. No one can gracefully ask some one else to give until he, himself, has given. The successful getter must first be a successful giver. Let every solicitor be fully prepared to meet the question, 'How much have you given?' This question undoubtedly will be asked many times. Be prepared to meet it promptly and unblushingly."

Pre-campaign solicitation began over a week ago. The fact that a number of church members have given Tls. 1,000 each, and a number of others Tls. 500 each has put a spirit of optimism into all preliminary work and will enable the public canvass to start with a good momentum.

"Let's start the ball to rolling before we pass it to the public," an American business man suggested, and followed the suggestion with a gift of Tls. 1,000.

The policy adopted will make it possible to announce at the first meeting of the teams that a "dignified sum" already has been obtained. The qualification of the solicitors will begin around the tables today at tiffin at the Hotel Parisien when each of the ten members of the ten teams will be asked to give. It is expected that the donations made by the one hundred workers will constitute a considerable portion of the entire amount to be raised.

WOMAN HERE IS ACCUSED OF ATTEMPT TO MURDER

British Subject In Court In Strange Case

INDIAN VICTIM

Money Lender Brutally Hacked, Loses Hand

An extraordinary case came up in the British Police Court yesterday before Judge Peter Grain when Mrs. Judith Rowarth, 63 years of age, residing at 1356 Woosung Road, was charged as being concerned in the attempted murder of an Indian moneylender, Bakher Singh, who was found terribly mutilated by an axe or chopper on the night of May 4.

It was stated during the preliminary procedure by Mr. Eardley Maitland, police prosecutor, that the woman, said to have held a position of some prominence here in the past, was not accused of striking or attempting to strike the victim, but that she, with a Chinese woman, acted as a decoy to lure the Indian to a lonely spot where he was attacked by three or four Chinese.

VICTIM LOSES HAND

Bakher Singh appeared in court with his face and head and one arm heavily bandaged and so bad was his condition that immediately after the case had been adjourned he was rushed back to hospital for further treatment. He has lost a hand as a result of the assault and the injuries to his jaw are such that medical opinion is not certain they will not have permanent effects.

The defendant was denied bail, but the Court promised all facilities for her to consult with her counsel, Mr. C. M. Reece, who applied for a remand as he had not had time to go into the case.

Evidence of the woman's arrest was given yesterday by Detective Sub-Inspector Quayle, who said that he had placed Mrs. Rowarth in custody at her residence Wednesday morning. She was cautioned and made no statement when the warrant was read to her.

PLEADS NOT GUILTY

In answer to the charge Mrs. Rowarth pleaded not guilty.

The testimony of Dr. N. H. Bolton was also taken. He said that he examined the man on the morning of May 5. There was a deep incised wound on the forehead, down to the bone, which was chipped. There were four or five deep wounds on the chin and neck, the most severe of these having completely fractured the lower jaw in two places. There was also a severe incised wound on the left wrist, almost completely severing the hand, which had to be amputated when the sufferer was able to take an anaesthetic. Asked by the Court if the man would recover, Dr. Bolton said that it was difficult to know what would happen to his jaw. He at first believed that the man was going to die, and on the 9th had informed the police that they had better take his statement.

After Dr. Bolton's testimony the case was adjourned until Monday morning.

Diplomats Protest Levies On Foreign Traders By Warlord

Peking, June 6.—Senhor de Freitas, Portuguese Minister and Doyen of the Diplomatic Corps, has lodged a protest with the Ministry of Foreign Affairs against the extortion of military expenses by the troops from foreign merchantmen at Wenhsien, Szechuen.

The Doyen points out that this constitutes a serious breach of Treaty. The Wai-chiaopu is demanded to order General Wu Pei-fu to instruct his agents to refrain from molesting foreign vessels further in that province.

American School Class Has Graduating Program

An eloquent address by Dr. F. L. Hawks Pott, a statement of the needs and aims of the school by Principal W. W. Bartlett and the awarding of three university scholarships made memorable for the graduating class of the Shanghai American School the 1923 commencement exercises held at the Lyceum Theater yesterday afternoon.

The theater was practically filled by the parents, friends and fellow-students of the sixteen graduates, while on the platform were Consul-General Edwin S. Cunningham; Judge Charles S. Lobingier, of the U. S. Court; Mr. J. Harold Dollar, chairman of the Board of Managers of the School and chairman of the American Chamber of Commerce; Dr. W. T. Findley, president of the American Association of China; Dr. Anne Walter Fearn, president of the American Woman's Club; Mr. W. J. Hawkings, president of the Shanghai Rotary Club; Mrs. Carleton Lacy, president of the Shanghai Branch of the American Association of University Women, and other prominent officials and residents.

SCHOLARSHIP AWARDS

Great interest centered about the award of the Shanghai Rotary Club and the Association of University Women scholarships. In the case of the first of these Mr. Hawkings sprung a delightful surprise by announcing that owing to the difficulty of narrowing the selection down to one student, the Rotary Club and its board had decided to award two bursaries, of $500 each.

The winners of the two Rotary Club scholarships, presented to the two graduates voted to have done most to serve the school during the four years of the high school course, were announced as Alexander Moffett, of Kiangyin, and William Lockwood, of Shanghai.

The winner of the girls' scholarship of $500, given by the Shanghai Branch of the American Association of University Women, is Miss Roberta White, of Shanghai.

The commencement exercises of yesterday opened with the singing of Elgar's "Land of Hope and Glory," while the class and guests of honor took their seats upon the stage. The invocation was pronounced by the Rev. F. J. White, president of Shanghai College.

The class orations, "The Eighteenth Amendment," by Miss Frances Jean Bowen, and "The Immigration Problem in America," by Paul L. Harvey, followed. Both of the youthful orators dealt with their subjects in comprehensive and eloquent style and spoke with easy grace.

DIPLOMAS PRESENTED

Songs by the Boys' Glee Club preceded the addresses of Dr. Pott and Mr. Bartlett, given below, and the diplomas were then presented by Mr. J. Harold Dollar as chairman of the School's board of managers.

The list of graduates—forming the largest class yet graduated by the School—is as follows: Frances Bowen, of Sungkiang; Elliott Fisher, of Canton; Thomas Grafton, of Haichow; Read Hager, of Shanghai; Paul Harvey, of Shanghai; Cecile Keyserling, of Vladivostok; William Lockwood, of Shanghai; Charles McDaniel, of Soochow; Alexander Moffett, of Kiangyin; Vanda Newhard, of Vladivostok; Eugene Parker, of Shanghai; Mary Rice, of Haichow; Jerome Shipley, of Shanghai; Henry Skinner, of Yenping; Roberta White, of Shanghai, and William Woods of Tsingkiangpu.

The announcement of the scholarship was then made, to an enthusiastic reception, the Girls' Glee Club and Mrs. R. D. Vanderburgh rendered a song and the Rev. Lacy I. Moffett, of the Southern Presbyteran Mission, pronounced the benediction.

DR. HAWKS POTT SPEAKS

Mr. Hawks Pott's address follows:

"You have just passed through that trying ordeal, the bugbear of pupil and teacher alike, the period of examinations, but I am going to ask you another question and put you through another examination. I want to ask you to consider the question why you go to school or, to put it in other

Schurman Applauds Shanghai Resolution

Mr. J. Harold Dollar, who seconded the resolution adopted at last Friday's mass meeting, has been required by Dr. Schurman, the American Minister, to express to the Shanghai public Dr. Schurman's sincere appreciation of the valuable service they have rendered. Dr. Schurman characterises the resolution as sane and statesmanlike in its terms and says that it cannot fail to be helpful; he is especially pleased with the emphasis on the identity of aims and interests of Chinese and foreigners in the maintenance of responsible government and good administration in China.

ALL CAPTIVES OUT BY SUNDAY, IS OPINION AT TSAOCHUANG NOW

Negotiations In Final Stage, With Main Difficulties Overcome, Lehrbas Telegraphs; Friedman And Solomon Have Been Ill With Malaria But Are Now Recovered; Commander Musso Able To Walk, Is Report Of Father Potte, Medical Missionary

By Lloyd ("Larry") Lehrbas
(China Press Staff Correspondent)

Tsaochuang, June 7.—Father Potte, the medical missionary, returned to Tsaochuang this afternoon after a prolonged stay at the bandit camp at Paotzuku. He reported that Messrs. Friedman and Solomon, who have been suffering from an attack of malaria, are now recovered. He also said that Mr. Musso was able to walk about the camp. The bandits apparently have settled their own differences, with the result that negotiations have reached the stage of final discussions. It is the general opinion here that all the captives will be released before Sunday.

Lincheng, June 6.—A hitch has occurred in the enrollment of bandits, owing to the struggle among the brigand chieftains for commissioned posts, says a report emanating from official circles at Tsaochuang.

The old bandits, states the report, now have agreed to rejoin the army but insist that they should rank above Sun Mei-yao and other young leaders. This, of course, the latter oppose, consequently the enlistment is at a standstill, pending a settlement of the disputes among the outlaws themselves.

The report adds that this may not seriously affect the situation but it is certain that the release of the captives will be delayed for at least ten days.

Tsaochuang, June 6.—Sun Mei-yao, the bandit leader, has decided to send his nephew, the young son of Sun Mei-chu, who was arrested and executed by Defense Commissioner Ho Feng-yu, to Shanghai to study, according to an official who returned from Paotsuku this afternoon.

The official says that Mr. Chen Tiao-yuan, the Government delegate, has presented a sum of $1,000 to the young bandit to contribute to his tuition. The gift, he states, is much appreciated by the brigand chieftain.

The enrollment of the outlaws continues. Rumors are current today that the remaining foreign captives will be liberated tomorrow, but this is thought unlikely because the enlistment will not be completed until Sunday.

The report that some five thousand bandits will be enrolled is denied by the authorities who declare that the number will not exceed two thousand.

The Chinese Red Cross Relief Team at the Chung Hsing Mining Administration is busy treating patients coming from the neighboring villages. Yesterday, three bandit representatives, Chi Chin-kiang, Ting Kai-fa and Wang Wen-ching, were escorted by a squad of soldiers to the Red Cross Temporary Headquarters for treatment. Chi suffered from a blood disease. Ting had an acute attack of bronchitis and Wang was infected with trachoma which he said was prevalent in the bandit camp.

The Chinese United Reliance Association is in receipt of a letter from Professor Hung Shih-chi, of Fu Tan University of Shanghai, who is still held captive at Paotsuku, asking that it purchase 17 nickel wrist watches, 17 straw hats, 17 pairs of shoes,

GUARDIAN SEES SINGAPORE BASE PLAN AS FOLLY

Manchester Paper Rebukes House Of Lords For Approval

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 6.—Commenting on the debate in the House of Lords on the Singapore naval base, the Manchester Guardian says that the taxpayer found few friends in the House of Lords when the plan of pouring at least £10,000,000 of his money into the deep mud of Singapore Harbor was discussed.

The taxpayer, the paper continues, had been cheered by knowing that he could safely save on the naval account more than enough money to make him reasonably secure in the air, but the Government says: "No! He shall pay extra to strengthen the air defences and also pay for new fantasies of naval nervousness or ambition" as if ruling the waves, even the waves of the Pacific, were the only part of defence to be considered.

The great new splash of expenditure on Singapore represents only the opinion of one section of retired Admirals, but the Marquess of Salisbury, the paper declares, is quite cheerful about Britain's power to pay big bills for old-fashioned naval fancies in order to have in 10 years a Far Eastern harbor capable of holding all the super-dreadnoughts on the China Station, if they have not then become as obsolete and worthless as some of our greatest sailors believe them to be already.

WANTS COUNCIL'S SOOCHOW CREEK WORK STOPPED

Chinese Ratepayers Contend Action Is Detrimental To Sovereignty

The Chinese Ratepayers Association has addressed a communication to the Chinese General Chamber of Commerce at Shanghai, protesting against the alleged encroachment by the Municipal Council upon the section of the Soochow Creek along the Garden Bridge.

It states that the Municipal Council is erecting an embankment in that section of the creek, thereby narrowing the point at which the Creek empties itself into the Whangpoo River. It says that the obstruction of the free passage of the water of the Creek to the Whangpoo River is very harmful to the rice fields in the up-country districts which the creek traverses.

The Soochow Creek, it points out, is beyond the jurisdiction of the Municipal Council, according to treaty stipulations, and the encroachment constitutes an infringement upon the Chinese Sovereignty. The chamber is asked to ask the Municipal Council to stop work on the creek and to recover its status quo.

Union Club Of China Passes Resolution

The following resolution has been passed by the general committee of the Union Club of China in connection with the Lincheng bandit atrocity:

"Resolved that this Committee expresses its sympathy with Mr. J. B. Powell, one of its members, for his detention in captivity by bandits at Lincheng and desires to place on record its abhorrence and indignation at the outrage committed upon him and other foreign and Chinese captives. The Committee also hopes that Mr. Powell and all captives will soon be released and that penalties will be meted out to those responsible for the outrage."

17 pairs of socks and 17 pairs of garters and send them to the hill as gifts for the desperadoes. Professor Hung expresses the hope that thus carrying favor prisoners may not be ill-treated with the outlaws, the Chinese

London, June 6.—In the House of Commons today, replying to Lt.-Col. Howard-Bury, Conservative Member for Bilston, Mr. McNeill, the Under-Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, said that according to the latest report of the British Minister in Peking, despatched on June 3, the negotiations for the release of the captives by the brigands appeared to be proceeding satisfactorily.

The British Minister gave his assurance that the captives were being made as comfortable as possible by the despatch of supplies and said that he was in daily communication with the military and consular representatives of the foreign Powers who were watching the situation. Mr. McNeill added that the British Minister in Peking was in consultation with the representatives of the other Powers concerned, considering measures to prevent a recurrence of such outrages.

(Reuters Pacific Service)

Tsaochuang, June 6.—While there is still an absence of definite news of the progress of negotiations, it is stated that they are continuing satisfactorily. The task of enrolling the bandits into the army is proving a long one, and until this has been accomplished it is not likely that there will be fresh developments.

A certain section of the bandits has already left Paotzuku, their departure presumably being winked at, but the irreconcilables are still holding out against enlistment. Beyond causing uneasiness, their attitude has had no effect as yet, but the authorities will feel happier, and more certain of the success of the negotiations, when the enrolment has been completed without interruption.

This particular group of bandits is in a small minority, but unfortunately they are the immediate guardians of the captives.

The food supplies are once again being delivered without a hitch, letters received yesterday stating that the last consignment had arrived safely.

Commission Takes "Larry's" Testimony On Bandit Holdup

Exclusive Dispatch To THE CHINA PRESS

Tsao Chuang, June 6.—While negotiations for the release of the Paotzuku captives are proceeding as well as can be expected, to resurrect an old familiar phrase, the International Commission for the Investigation of the Lincheng incident is holding daily sessions at Tsao Chuang.

The commission is made up of Mr. R. C. Wen and Mr. Lee Fong-lok of the Waichiaopu, British Consul-General Tours of Tsinan, American Consul Davis of Nanking, French Vice-Consul Cremin of Shanghai, and Italian Vice-Consul Ferrajolo of Shanghai. Today they will receive the testimony of Mr. Larry Lehrbas, staff correspondent of THE CHINA PRESS, who was one of the passengers on the express. He escaped after being with the bandits about two hours. Other captives will be questioned by their respective consuls and their reports turned into the commission.

There was little or no news received from the captives in last night's 'bandit express.' The letters received merely gave a few details of the daily routine in the camp, expressed the now oft-repeated remark that all the captives are 'fed up' with their experiences, and advised Mr. Robert McCann of the Asia Development Company that food supplies which were temporarily held up, were now coming through without mishap or robbery by the bandits.

Three bandit representatives were visitors at the relief train yesterday conferring with Mr. Roy Anderson, Commissioner of Foreign Affairs Wen of Nanking and the Consular Body. General Chen, the chief government delegate, did not go to Paotzuku yesterday but the enrollment of bandits into the army is reported to have continued without interruption.

Possibility Of Tobacco Monopoly In China

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 6.—In the House of Commons tonight, replying to Dr. Chapple, Liberal Member for Dumfriesshire, Mr. McNeill, the Under-Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, said that he had not been approached by any British representative in China with a suggestion that the reintroduction of opium in China was necessary to protect the country from financial collapse. There had been a recrudescence of poppy-growing in China and the revenues from it were utilised by the local military leaders. The Central Government did not use this source of revenue nor had any proposal that they should do so been brought to the attention of His Majesty's Government.

Dr. Chapple drew attention to the possibility of establishing a tobacco monopoly in China with the object of saving the financial situation and partly to counteract the desire for indulgence in opium.

Mr. McNeill pointed out that the Consortium representatives at Peking were doubtless considering an improvement in the existing sources of revenue, and also suggesting new sources to the Chinese Government if they seemed feasible.

COLIC AND ITS CAUSE

How Baby's Own Tablets Cure It

Colic is a common complaint with children, due to gas in the stomach and bowels. The child cries but suddenly, refuses to be quieted, and draws the legs up close to the body. Sometimes it is accompanied by nausea, vomiting and fever.

Baby's Own Tablets, the Canadian children's stomach and bowel remedy, quickly relieve the pains of colic, dispel the gas which is its cause, and bring natural, restful sleep to the little sufferer.

Mrs. James Hargraves, of Fall River, Mass., U. S. A., writes: 'Baby's Own Tablets have done wonders for my little one. She was troubled with wind colic, and nothing helped her until we got Baby's Own Tablets. These relieved her and cured the trouble almost at once. I would not be without them."

Medicine vendors sell Baby's Own Tablets, or post free, 60 cents per vial ($3 for 6) from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 60 Kiangse Road, Shanghai.

Paris, June 7.—It is authoritatively foreshadowed that the new German proposals are likely to be considered inadequate by the French Government. The French and Belgian pressure in the Ruhr will probably be increased, extending the control system to further railway lines and factories.

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, June 6.—The Temps states that the optimism resulting from the statements by the British Prime Minister, Mr. Baldwin, has been modified by the news received in London from Berlin that the German Chancellor, Herr Cuno, in the new proposals sent today, has indicated no figure. The whole British press, from the Daily Telegraph to the radical Manchester Guardian, deplores Herr Cuno's decision and considers it a mistake.

The Journal des Debats quotes a statement made by Lord Derby at a meeting of the Franco-British Committee for the erection of a war-memorial to those killed on the Somme, "the whole security and peace of the world come from firm friendship between Britain and France."

(Reuter's Service)

Berlin, June 7.—Six rioters were killed and 23 wounded by the police at Leipzig yesterday, who were previously attacked by roughs who had joined a peaceful procession of trade-unionists.

(Reuter's Service)

Brussels, June 6.—MM. Poincare, de Lasteyrie and Le Trocquer arrived in Brussels this afternoon and were received on the platform by MM. Theunis, Jaspar and Max. The French Ministers were warmly cheered by the crowd who had assembled at the station..

The conference began immediately at the Foreign Ministry.

Later—A communique, issued at the conclusion of the meeting of the French and Belgian Premiers, states that the Ministers confirmed their previous decisions, especially in regard to the terms for evacuation of the the Ruhr, namely, payment of reparations and cessation of passive resistance before proposals can be examined.

The communique, in conclusion, states that the two Governments have drawn up a program of fresh measures to increase the present pressure and compel Germany speedily to fulfil her obligations.

American School Class Has Graduating Program

words, what is the aim of education?

"School is more popular nowadays than it used to be, but I suppose many of you would appreciate Shakespeare's description of the

"Whinning schoolboy with his satchel
And shining morning face, creeping like snail
Unwillingly to school."

"How will you answer my question as to why you go to school? I can hear someone say 'I go because my parents send me,' another, 'I don't want to grow up an ignoramus;' still another, 'I want to prepare for college' and still another, 'I must learn how I can earn a living.' None of these answers are altogether satisfactory and my own answer would be, 'You go to school to prepare for life by participating in life.' Please notice I did not say 'to prepare to make a living.' Vocational training has its place in education, but it cannot be considered the chief aim. To prepare for life, the largest and fullest life possible, is something much bigger than to prepare for making a living.

TO ENTER INTO HERITAGE

"Now if my answer is correct, certain things necessarily follow. First, you go to school that you may enter into the heritage to which you are entitled. That heritage is your spiritual inheritance from the past. You are heirs of all the ages and have a right to enter into your scientific, literary, aesthetic, institutional and religious inheritance.

"By your scientific inheritance, I mean what the great scientists have discovered in regard to the universe in which we live. By your literary inheritance, I mean the great literature in prose and poetry of all ages and of all countries. By your aesthetic inheritance I mean the appreciation of what is beautiful in art and nature. By your institutional inheritance, I mean a knowledge of the development of society and government; by your religious inheritance, I mean the great truths and ideals revealed to us by the great religious teachers of the world. Only by entering into this inheritance can you obtain culture and become truly educated men and women.

"You do not inherit this knowledge, you have to acquire it for you come into this world naked mentally as well as physically. What your teachers do for you is to direct your attention to it, to stir up your interest in it so that you may come to enjoy it more and more. Of course, you cannot acquire the whole of it while you are at school and all through life you will be able to enter into it more and more. This may sound very old fashioned, but I believe it to be true and think it is one of the aims of education which modern educaters are inclined to overlook.

TO DEVELOP OWN NATURES

"In the second place you go to school so that you may develop your own rich natures. Although you do not inherit knowledge, yet you do inherit instincts, powers, tastes and sentiments. You may not be aware at first of the powers you possess. They have to be discovered and they have to be developed. There is great variability in individuals so that no two of you are exactly alike and no two of you will develop in exactly the same way. Some of you are sleeping giants although you may not be aware of the fact yourselves. Now the school furnishes the stimulus to arouse your dormant powers and provides the environment in which they can grow up. Your schoolmasters should find out what your real interests are and give you the opportunity for realising them. The only way, however, in which they can be developed is by self-activity. Nothing develops without exercise and that is the reason why I said 'to prepare for life by participating in life.' You athletes understand that. You know that you cannot acquire skill in any sport except by taking part in it. No one could teach you to swim simply by telling you how. You have got to jump into the water and practice for yourself.

"Learning by doing is one of the great principles of modern education. We may laugh at the account given us by Dickens of Do-the-boys-hall' and at the methods employed by Mr. Squeers. You remember he called on a boy to spell the word weed and then said to him 'Go out into the garden and pull up the weeds.' After all he was acting on a principle which modern educators have adopted. You cannot really learn science except by going into the laboratory and performing experiments. Mathematics will not mean much to you unless you seek for some practical application and work out some problems for yourself. You will never appreciate the world's best literature unless you try to express yourself and your thoughts in a literary way. And so it is with everything. So you will develop your powers and your minds will become trained and disciplined and you will be able to meet and master the problems of life as they arise.

MUST MOULD SELVES

"What I have said is as true in regard to morality as it is in regard to the intellect. It is impossible for your teacher to make you good merely by preaching to you and giving you formal instruction in religion and ethics. Sometimes it is said that the task of the teacher is to mould the characters of his pupils, but no teacher can really do that. He can furnish the stimulus and the example, and environment, but the formation of character depends upon your own moral activity and upon your forming the right moral habits. Remember, then, that self-development is through self-activity.

"Now, a third reason why you go to school—I said that it is for the development of your powers: I might have said your personality, but personality cannot be developed unless you come into social relationships with your fellow men. As has been truly said, 'one man is no man.' You go to school, then, to prepare for social life or for citizenship. The great virtues for social life are reliability, self-control, steadfastness and social justice. In school you have the opportunity for the development of reliability. The boy or girl who cheats in examinations or in a game of tennis will not be reliable in the greater tests of life. The pupil who is a quitter when confronted by hard tasks or problems in the school room or when called upon to put up a hard fight on the football field, will never develop that grit and steadfastness which leads to the accomplishment of great tasks in life. The boy or the girl who does not learn self control in school and how to subdue temper and passion will not be victorious when assailed by the temptations of life. The one who does not develop a sense of social justice, a proper regard for the rights of others, will never be able to cooperate or enter into team play, things which are very essential in a democratic form of society. The good citizen must have these qualifications. He must possess ability and knowledge but above all, character,—reliability, self-control, steadfastness and social justice.

STRESSES LOYALTY

"Now one of the things that helps us greatly in the development of character is loyalty to an idea. As Professor Royce says, 'A man is contented only in loyalty to something bigger than himself. He must be devoted to a cause big enough to be worth sacrificing for, worth living and dying for.'

"Now you are students of the American School, a national school, and one of the aims of that school is to give you this great ideal of loyalty to your country, or patriotism, but I would ask you to remember that nationalism is not the largest loyalty of which we are capable and that there is a kind of patriotism which is narrow, biassed and injurious. A pride in our own country, that renders us blind to what is good in other countries, a patriotism which leads to a spirit of hostility to all other nations, are menaces to the civilisation of the world. We saw that very clearly in what was called the 'German Kultur.' We, Americans, need to be on our guard. Perhaps we are too fond of referring to our country as 'God's own country,' perhaps we are too apt to be boastful and arogant in our attitude toward others. We like too much 'to make the Eagle scream.' I remember the story of an orator, who in his flight of eloquence, said "The United States is bounded on the north by the Aurora Borealis, on the east by the rising sun, on the south by the procession of the Equinox and on the west by the Day of Judgment.'

"At this critical period in the world's history the future of the civilisation of the world depends very largely upon the development of a spirit, of internationalism. We must learn to regard all nations as members of one great family. We must have a conception of the whole human race as a brotherhood. You brought up here in Shanghai, in this cosmopolitan city, have a wonderful opportunity of acquiring this spirit of internationalism.

"So, then, the greatest object of our loyalty is the welfare of humanity, is the realisation of Christ's great ideal of the 'Kingdom of God on Earth.' That is a cause worth living and dying for and we should not be contented with anything else.

"Thus I have endeavored very imperfectly to tell you why you go to school. To recapitulate, it is to enter into your spiritual inheritance, to develop your inherited powers, tastes and sentiments; to become the right sort of beings.

"But you will say, some of us are leaving school and we are graduating, this is our Commencement Day, and you will ask how do these words apply to us. You are leaving school but you are not ending your education. Whether you go on to college or into business, you will still continue your education. It is a life process and something we never finish. Life has been compared to many things, among them a voyage, a pilgrimage, a play on a stage and a school. The last is the best for we are always in God's great school and the aim of our education will always remain the same—it is that we may have life and have it more abundantly."

PRINCIPAL'S ADDRESS

"The Shanghai American School is about to enter the third stage of its development," said Mr. Bartlett. "The first stage was the establishment. The second stage has been the acquiring of land and the first unit of building. This stage may now be regarded as practically complete. We are ready to enter the third stage, which will be the securing of the second unit of building.

"The danger with which we are now confronted is that of coming to regard ourselves as having arrived at our goal, of assuming that we have completed the work of building a school. We have only begun.

"We are proud of the accomplishments of the last eleven years, but it may be well for a few moments to consider our deficiences. We are about to move to our new plant, a plant almost ideal in as far as it goes, but a plant not yet sufficient to give even the elemental requirements to those American children who wish to enter it next September. The new plant has no accommodations for kindergarten, Manual training, home economics, commercial work, drawing or art. It has insufficient accommodations for teachers, it has only makeshift arrangements for the care of sick children and no provision for physical training other than such as can be carried on in the class rooms.

TELLS OF NEEDS

"Our dormitory reservations for the fall are already considerably in excess of the accommodations. Our calculations show that in some of the Grades the class rooms will be full and that we shall probably have to establish waiting lists. In all probability we must even at the opening refuse children of some of those who have contributed toward the building of the school. To properly provide for American children actually demanding admission next fall, the school needs the following: a gymnasium, an infirmary, a section of boys dormitory, a permanent primary building, additional accommodations for teachers, the laying out of the grounds, including the setting out of trees, the building of roads, and the erection of a fence. In round numbers this represents an expenditure of C. $200,000.00.

"On Tuesday last the Executive Committee approved a definite plan for beginning the work of raising the money for this second unit. It will require at least from three to five years to secure the money and to promote this development. In the meantime if the school continues to increase at its present rate, we shall have from fifty to eighty percent more students making application. The situation requires two things, patience and co-operation; the same spirit of patience and recognition of limitations which has existed for eleven years, while our limitations were greater; the same spirit of co-operation with the management which has made the securing of the first unit a reality.

WANT MORE ROOM

"Within the school we are setting ourselves to do well the things which we have already undertaken. The secret of a successful school is not in the doing of a multitude of things, but in the doing of a few things well. The only way in which a small school can successfully compete with large schools is by resolutely sticking to the most essential things and by doing them superbly well. No small school, with reasonable resources, can offer as wide a range of electives as can a large school, but a small school can do just as good work in a smaller number of subjects. We must bear in mind that after all we are, but a small school. In our High School we have only 122 pupils. We have departments of English, French, Latin, Mathematics, Science, History, Economics and Sociology, Bible, Chinese History and Economics and Music. This is ten departments and requires twenty-four regular classes, which is more than a school of our size can efficiently carry. We are trespassing on the border of inefficiency in order to give as wide a range of electives as possible. In the Grade School the curriculum is crowded until it is difficult to do thorough work. The need here is additional classrooms.

"Our chief aim is the doing well of what we are doing. The success of your child in life will not depend as much upon the number of different things he may undertake to learn in school, as on whether or not he acquires habits of doing thoroughly what he does undertake. The thing which causes me regret is not the work which we are unable to undertake at the present time, but the work which we are endeavoring to do and are not able to do in the best manner.

ELEVEN YEARS' WORK

"We have been eleven years on this undertaking of building a school which shall be second to none anywhere. We have made remarkable progress, but we are still a long way from that goal. There are many highly desirable

I DISLIKE TO CLING TO OFFICE, SAYS LI, CLINGING TIGHTER

Refuses To Accept Resignation Of The Premier

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, June 7.—The President also issued a circular telegram yesterday evening to the provinces in which he declares that since his resumption of office he has worked hard for the welfare of the country. He does not desire to cling to office but as long as the National Constitution is not completed he cannot leave the nation in a state of lawlessness.

The President has refused to accept the Premier's resignation and has despatched General Chin Yun-yan, the Vice-Minister of War, and Mr. Liu Chih-chow, the Vice-Minister of the Interior, to Tientsin to persuade the Premier to return. President Li Yuan-hung also sent General Wang Chih-hsiang to Paotingfu in order to learn General Tsao Kun's views.

Chinese circles regard the present crisis as Presidential rather than a Cabinet crisis, it being brought about in order to place General Tsao Kun in the Presidential Chair.

A prolonged crisis occurring at this time is very serious to the country. If the Premier does not return the President may nominate Dr. C. T. Wang or, failing him, Mr. Wu Yu-lin as Acting Premier long enough to tide over the Dragon Festival.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, June 7.—In addition to the Cabinet's circular telegram, General Feng Yu-hsiang has also sent a circular telegram to the Provinces declaring that the President has been interfering with the Cabinet's functions. The telegram almost amounts to a demand that President Li Yuan-hung should leave office.

There has been considerable friction recently between General Feng Yu-hsiang and the President over the control of the Peking Octroi. General Feng Yu-hsiang recently induced the Cabinet to dismiss the Chief of the Octroi, who was the President's appointee and to appoint Mr. Hsueh Tu-pi, who is a supporter of General Feng.

PRESIDENT PIERCE BRINGS IN SMALL AMERICAN MAIL

The next mail for the United States will leave on the President Cleveland early tomorrow morning, and following the arrival of the President Pierce yesterday morning, mail from the States is due on the President Jefferson next Tuesday. The Jefferson should arrive at Yokohama from Seattle yesterday.

The Cleveland will arrive here from Hongkong this morning and is to dock at the China Merchants Lower Wharf about 8 o'clock. The vessel will sail at daylight tomorrow morning, and is due to arrive in San Francisco via Kobe, Yokohama and Honolulu on June 28. Both the ordinary and registered mail will close at 9 p.m. today.

The Pierce which came from San Francisco, Honolulu and Japan ports, brought 421 bags of mail, 2,500 tons of cargo and 46 cabin passengers to Shanghai, and docked at the China Merchants Central Wharf. It is scheduled that the Pierce will sail for Hongkong and Manila at 5 o'clock this afternoon.

Britain Plans Aid To Shipping Firm

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 7.—Substantial assistance to the shipbuilding industry is likely from a recommendation of the Trade Facilities Act Advisory Committee that the Treasury should guarantee the Royal Mail Steam Packet Co. £3,300,000 on material for three ships to be built at Belfast. Alumnae of McTyeire School and of St. Mary's Hall will participate, while the St. John's University Chinese Orchestra and the Soochow University Band will give selections of instrumental music. Vocal music, musical comedy, pantomine and playlets will be other features of the program.

Socony Head Back After World Tour

Mr. V. G. Lyman, of the Standard Oil Company, returned to Shanghai by the Pacific Mail liner President Pierce yesterday after a five-month trip around the world. He was accompanied for most of the trip by Mrs. Lyman and Mr. W. C. Lyman, their son. Mrs. Lyman is stopping over in Japan to spend the summer there. Mr. W. C. Lyman will sail for Java shortly to resume his work with the Standard Oil Company there.

Among others returning to Shanghai by the same steamer, are Dr. John Y. Lee, secretary of the Y.M.C.A. and Mr. E. M. Bell of the J. C. Whitney Co.

disposition on the part of charterers to act is feeble.

It will interest many shippers in Shanghai to learn that the T.K.K. which withdrew its steamer, the Persia Maru, from the San Francisco service in March last year, is now planning the withdrawal of the Korean Maru and the Siberia Maru also from the American service shortly to allocate them on the Japanese line, it is stated. The Toyo Kisen Kaisha, it is mentioned, is working the American line at heavy expense and is not subsidised by the Japanese Government. The loss on this particular service is estimated at yen 40,000 per trip. The abolition of this service, maintained since the inception of the T.K.K., might divest the Company of much of its prestige. It is agreed that under the present depressed conditions the American passenger service cannot be maintained profitably to the concern. It is doubtful whether the Japanese service would prove a source of better profits to the T.K.K., for it is well-known the rival companies, such as the N.Y.K., O.S.K., and others are crowding this run.

Another steamship company has entered the China field. It is a new concern which has established since June 1 a fast passenger service between the United States and China. It is the United States and China Steamship Company, and the number of vessels that the Company propose to operate is seven, principally former United States transports of the Mihiel type.

The matter appears to have been discussed a few days ago by the Japanese Chamber of Commerce, and a resolution concerning the problem has been presented to the Chinese Government through the Japanese Consulate.

Peking Agent Is Here To Sell New Issue of Bonds

Local Bankers Refuse To Buy Unless Endorsed By Salt Chief

According to a report emanating from Chinese banking circles, the Government has decided to issue special bonds to the amount of $7,000,000 secured by the salt surplus. The report adds that one Mr. Tao, a delegate of the Ministry of Finance, has arrived at Shanghai and approached local Chinese bankers for the sale of these bonds. It is understood that the bankers have refused to dispose of such loan bonds, until they have been approved and signed by Mr. E. C. C. Wilton, Inspector General of the Salt Gabelle at Peking.

STUDENTS OF ANCIENT HISTORY ARE NEVER UP-TO-DATE

Donoghue's Victory In Derby His 3rd Straight

(French Wireless)

Paris, June 6.—The Epson Derby was won by one length by Papyrus belonging to an American owner, Mr. Sargent.

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 6.—Papyrus beat Pharos by a length and there was a length and a half between Pharos and Parth.

Nineteen ran.

Starting prices: 100 to 15 Papyrus: 6 to 1 Pharos: 33 to 1 Parth.

The weather was unsettled. There was a large attendance, including the Prince of Wales who inspected the horses in the paddock.

A storm was threatening and the light was bad as the horses went to the post.

Saltash was fractious, but at last the barrier ascended.

It was a good start. Saltash raced to the front, followed by Pharos, Knockando, Town Guard, Legality and Hurry Off.

After the quarter-mile Town Guard forced the pace, pursued by Legality, Pharos, Ellangowan, Doric and Papyrus.

The horses then disappeared in the mist, and when the colors could be distinguished entering the straight, Papyrus was leading, followed by Pharos and Doric.

A quarter of a mile from home Pharos headed Papyrus, but the latter regained the lead at the distance and won comfortably.

Donoghue has thus completed a Derby hat trick.

Doric was fourth and Town Guard, the favorite, who started at 5 to 1, thirteenth.

The time was 2 mins. 38 secs.

Scaliger did not run and Skias was scratched at 4.55 p.m. yesterday, otherwise the runners were identical with the last list of probables.

The possibilities of the cable in the matter of fast transmission of news were put to a test yesterday in the case of the result of the Derby, when special arrangements were made by the Eastern Telegraph Company for the quick receipt of the news in Shanghai.

The race is timed to start at 3 p.m., but, as usual, there was a little delay at the post. It was exactly 3.14 when the names of the first three horses appeared on the signalboard. Half a minute later the result was received at Reuter's head office in the City, and in three and a half minutes more it was received at Reuter's office in Shanghai.

That is to say, four minutes after the result was announced on the board at Epsom, it was known in Shanghai. The times were as follows:

Result announced on the course 3.14 p.m.

Result announced in London 3.14½ p.m.

Result announced in Shanghai 10:18 p.m. (3.18 p.m.)

(With summer time in operation, 3.18 p.m. in England is equal to 10.18 p.m. Shanghai.)

The performance not only constitutes a record for a London-Shanghai cable message of any description; it is further confirmation of the belief, strongly held by those with the knowledge to judge that with the constant improvements which are being made with a view to speed acceleration over long distances, the cable can be made to hold its own in competition with any other transmission agency.

EAST CHINA TO MAKE ORGANISED ATHLETIC EFFORT

Association Being Formed For Improvement Of Athletics

As a result of China's failure at this year's Far Eastern Olympic Games, an athletic association, which will probably be named The East China Athletic Association, is now being organised. The main object of the organisation will be to promote athletics on different lines with a view of bringing the Chinese athletes in this part of the country up to the same standard as the Japanese and Filipinos.

In a preliminary meeting held in the Eastern Times Building last Wednesday afternoon which was attended by several well-known persons in the Chinese athletic circles, including Mr. F. K. Liu, who took charge of the Olympic athletes from South China; Mr. Wm. Z. L. Sung of St. John's University; Messrs. C. G. Hoh and T. B. Chang of the Chinese Y. M. C. A. Physical Department; Mr. Tu Yung-tang and several others, all the matters relating to the 6th Far Eastern Olympic Games were reviewed and discussed in length. Questions relating to lack of preparation, the ill treatment the Chinese athletes received in taking the steerage passage to Osaka and return and the impropriety of having a foreigner to control the whole affair and to head the whole Chinese delegation to the Games were all dealt with in detail.

Several short speeches were delivered and after about three hours a unanimous decision was arrived at to form an athletic association in East China, with a view to unite athletic associations of South, West and North China to form a national athletic association to promote the Chinese athletics.

JOHNSON HAS NOTHING ON GINK

Hero Of Roughtown's Record Shows Two Fights In One Punch

Owing to laughing vetoes awarded by the New York and New Jersey Board of Boxing Suspensions, young Floyd Johnson will have to fight twice in three weeks.

First he will go after the marathon slapping record with Fred Fulton. Then he gets hooked up with the new Jess Willard, while the new Bill Muldoon picks his good tooth in satisfaction and the new King Tutt slumbers on in refreshed somnolence.

But twice in three weeks 'aint much. Jim Jeffries fought twice in one night. Johnny Evers fought that many times an inning.

But Gink Fowler, the champ of Roughtown, is the first man who ever fought twice on one punch The second fight took place on an ironing board while six strong doctors were operating on him to remove his share of a forfeited purse. They had to operate on him first to remove the ingrown bonus.

The operation was unsuccessful and Gink was removed to the Flushing Hospital, where the famous Dr. Chalmers painted Gink's conscience with iodine and marked it light duty.

Roughtown was very rough Anybody passing through that burg would think that everybody had whiskers. At the first look men, women and cildren looked like they were toting white heards.

A second squint with the optician's marbles revealed the fact that the white beards were first-aid bandages.

Pretty tough. But it was a philanthropic city. It was the only town where the poor rode in ambulances on equal terms with the rich. And also the only city where children learned their alphabets off tombstones.

Gink would fight with the drop of the hat.

In fact, he was so anxious to fight that he always dropped with the hat.

So you can see that Floyd hasn't got much of a job on his hands and feet. All he has to do is wallop two big bizzmarks in three weeks.

Hongkong Polo Players Lost On 15 Hand Mounts

The Hongkong polo players lost their first Manila game in the inter-port series to the Headquarters Fours by 12 to 5, at the Polo Club, says the Manila Bulletin.

Their defeat was a complete whitewash, with their handicap being placed at five. Headquarters started at 0. But the defeat brought much needed practice for the visitors to get used to their taller mounts. Average height of Hongkong ponies is 13 hands. They are 15 in Manila.

The visitors showed they were not accustomed to the large horses in the handling. It took the Hongkong men more time to wheel about when the ball started toward the opposition goal than should be required. The Britishers were judging distances, however, and very few misses were recorded.

The game brought forth several "runs" of the field both by Americans and British. Captain Howell was especially adept in taking the ball with him. Several times the Britishers also swept the length of the field with the white ball. Howell also displayed good riding form, going hard and judging the ball well. He was responsible for six Headquarters' goals.

Major Lee also displayed plenty of fight. It was probably his last big game on the local field as he is understood to be returning to the United States soon. Lee, playing No. One, crossed the opponent's goal twice, displayed clever riding ability and was in the game all the time.

Lieutenant Read was second high man in scoring, making four points.

The visitors are expected to show regular strength later in the week. Their next game is with McKinley.

most willingly have acquiesced, the Hongkong Government Control started out by using them for profiteering purposes, that is to say, whilst paying to the owners mere Governmental rates of hire, they sub-let and chartered the steamers to ordinary China-coast charterers at enormous profits brought about on account of the high freight rates then ruling.

ACTION CLAIMED ILLEGAL

"This action on the part of the Hongkong Government was not only irregular and most unjustifiable, but was also (the owners were advised) illegal as it was not warranted by any Act of Parliament, Ordinance, Order in Council, Royal Prerogative or other lawful authority. Accordingly the owners took steps to raise an immediate protest, and eventually in December, 1919 a test case was instituted against the Government in the Hongkong Courts with a view to securing the return of the profits made by the Government in respect of each vessel.

"In this connection the owners had been guided by their solicitors that the appropriation of these profits by the Hongkong Government was irregular, and that the owners had every justification for taking legal proceedings for the recovery of their property. Immediately upon legal action being taken the Colonial Secretary approached the owners, through the Shipowners Protection Association, with a view and a request to stay such legal proceedings for such period as would give him time to communicate with the Home Government with a view to settling the matter amicably, pointing out that it was inadvisable to continue expensive litigation when it was possible to settle the matter otherwise.

HONGKONG'S COUNTERMOVE

"Unfortunately your Chairman and Mr. S. T. Williamson (the Chairman of the Shipowners Protection Association) agreed to this request. This was an unfortunate mistake on their part as it gave the Hongkong Government time to prepare and put into effect an effective counter move to forestall and frustrate the owners' claim. This took the shape of the Indemnity Ordinance 1922 which came into force in August of that year under which it was provided (inter alia) as follows:

'No action or other legal proceeding whatsoever, whether civil or criminal, shall be instituted in any court of law for or on account of or in respect of any act, matter or thing done, whether within or without the Colony, during the war before the passing of this Ordinance, if done in good faith, and done or purported to be done in the execution of his duty, or for the defence of the realm, or for the public safety, or for the defence of the Colony, or for the enforcement of discipline, or otherwise in the public interest, by a person holding office under or employed in the service of the Crown in any capacity, whether naval, military, air-force, or civil, or by a person holding office under or employed in the service of the Government of the Colony of Hongkong in any capacity, or by any other person acting under the authority of a person so holding office or so employed, or for the recovery of any sum of money which was acquired by the Government of the Colony of Hongkong in consequence of any such act, matter or thing; and if any such proceeding has been instituted before the commencement of this Ordinance, it shall be discharged and made void, subject to such order as to costs as the court or a judge thereof may think fit to make.'

COMPANY ASTOUNDED

"Your Chairman and those interested were astounded at this step, which meant that the owners of the steamers were entirely debarred from seeking redress in the Courts, and which had the effect of enabling the Hongkong Government to cloak themselves behind their unjustifiable actions and to retain for their own use the huge profits made at the expense of the small private shipowners whilst using their ships for non-War purposes. Needless to say, appeals of every kind were made against this injustice, but these were without avail and the Indemnity Bill, after passing its various stages, eventually came into force as an Ordinance. The hands of the owners were thus tied, the test case which they had already instituted was thrown out, and they were left with nowhere to turn for assistance or a fair hearing.

"For myself I do not care to contemplate the long hours of worry that I have endured as a result of this action on the part of the Hongkong Government. The one-sidedness of this action is the more apparent when it is remembered that the only commercial and industrial interests in the Colony which were put under Government control and whose profits were impounded by the Hongkong Government during the War were the shipping interests, whilst all other commercial and industrial interests, including docks and marine insurance companies, both of which made large profits from shipping, were permitted to take and retain their profits.

"TRAVESTY OF JUSTICE"

"It is certainly a travesty of justice that requires a Shanghai-owned company to give up its all and go completely out of existence in order to permit the Colony of Hongkong to enjoy the fruits of years of such company's labors. One cannot but be reminded of the fateful words 'Might is Right' for the correction of which so many lives have been sacrificed in recent years, but never were they truer words than in this instance.

"From figures carefully compiled, and which I believe to be correct, the net profits accruing to the Hongkong Government under their scheme were: On Manapouri $277,979.66, on Castlefield $97,755.48, and on Wollowra $616,773.18, while the audited figures covering the running of the steamers under control, in most cases showed a severe loss. One has further to bear in mind that the steamers were re-delivered to their owners at the time of a collapsed shipping market for the preparation against which the owners had no opportunity whatsoever of building up reserves.

"NO REDRESS"

"Gentlemen, our Company has directly and indirectly become a sufferer through these enormous losses, caused to the fleet. Your Chairman has financially assisted both your Shanghai office and the various companies to a considerable extent, but he now finds it essential to call a halt as otherwise he would be incurring obligations and liabilities beyond his personal resources. While down in Hongkong in March of this year your chairman received final and definite notice that no possible redress would be given, and this brought about the climax to avoid which we have done so much.

"The entire collapse of the shipping market and the fact that there has been no opportunity to build up reserves to tide over the present crisis, have combined to driving the several companies to the wall, and our modest efforts covering a number of years of untiring energy have been irretrievably wasted and wrecked. The Lindsay Moller has had to be sold for the absurd price of $32,000, all the proceeds of which have rightfully to go to the mortgagees, leaving very few obligations outside of those of your chairman, who, being a heavy creditor of the Company, is seriously affected.

MET OBLIGATIONS

"Your capital has been totally enveloped in this distress, but practically all your obligations have been met by your chairman, who however in view of the unsatisfactory circumstances which have brought about this crisis, now finds himself unable to give further support. In no way are our company's bankers affected as at no time have we requested their assistance by an overdraft.

"This, gentlemen, is the position in which we are placed today, and to the best of my belief the facts as I have placed them before you are absolutely accurate throughout.

"PITILESS—RELENTLESS!"

"In proposing the resolution which I shall now read I must express my regrets and surprise that such a wealthy Colony as Hongkong should see fit to endow its schools, build houses and residences for its officials, and support other improvements for the benefits of the Colony, out of the proceeds of an unjustifiable scheme which in its pitilessness and relentlessness is quite unparalleled—a scheme which has had the effect of driving into liquidation and bankruptcy a modest Shanghai shipping company which has had its Red Anchor flag flying over these Chinese waters for over half a century."

The resolution read as follows: That it has been proved to the satisfaction of this meeting that the company by reason of its liabilities cannot continue its business, and it is advisable to wind up the same, and accordingly that the company be wound up voluntarily, and that Alexander McLure and T. Griffin, both of Shanghai, be appointed as joint and several liquidators for the purpose of such winding up.

It was proposed by Mr. Eric Moller.

BURKILL ENDORSES

In seconding the resolution Mr. C. R. Burkill said:

"I beg to second the Resolution and can from personal experience confirm Mr. Moller's statements. Steamers were controlled by the Hongkong Government under a special Order-in-Council which permitted the Governor of the Colony to take steamers 'in aid or defence' of the Crown Colony of Hongkong.

"The steamers mentioned by Mr. Moller were used solely for profiteering purposes and it was announced that this large sum of money accruing from such profiteering was to be used to alleviate the shortage of houses in Hongkong, which use of the money was stopped by an injunction from the owners concerned. After agreeing to postpone the case instituted against the Government because the Shipping Controller was going on leave and because we were given to understand it would help materially in amicable settlement, we found that the postponement was merely used to enable an Indemnity Act to be framed and passed, which put us out of Court.

ADMITTED ILLEGALITY

"In an interview I had personally with the Colonial Secretariat, in London, it was admitted that the use the steamers were put to was illegal under the Order-in-Council sanctioning the Control, but I was informed that however 'illegal or piratical' (the very words used), the Indemnity Act covered everything and we had nothing left to do.

"It seems grossly unfair that a few ships should, at the expense of their owners, contribute a large sum to the welfare of a rich Colony, while Hongkong Docks who repaired our ships at exorbitant war prices and marine insurance companies who insured them should contribute nothing at all. I am not aware that any Hongkong enterprise contributed anything to the Colony of Hongkong either 'for aid or defence.'

"The requisition in Home waters was at Blue Book rates and ships were valued and owners given a British Government War policy for such value but in this respect they were better off than owners under Hongkong control as we received no Government policy for war risk and insuring this risk was no small cost even though our boats were not in the danger zone. In another respect Blue Book controlled boats were better off as they paid wages in Sterling and we had to pay Sterling at 1s. 10½d. to the Dollar—whereas our hire was paid half at current exchange and half at 1s. 9d. and on this point and on the question of War Risk, we still have hopes of some alleviation."

The resolution was passed.

things which only more years of co-operation and hard work will bring to us. In the meantime, however, we do not have to wait for the most essential things. We can keep the school life simple, we can inculcate habits of thoroughness, dependability and hard work, we can send our young people out into the world with clear minds and a sense of proportion. And there is one thing in our school life which alone outsets all of our deficiences, that is the wholesome tone and atmosphere of the school. I know of no school where ideals are as high, where the influence of student on student is as elevating, where comradeship between boys and girls is as sincere, where honor and honesty are held at as high a premium, where thoughts are as lofty, where the student life is as happy. I know of no school from which students one and all go out into the world with so much of that spirit of happiness and confidence which is one of the greatest single factors in success and in usefulness. These so much more than make up our deficiences, that I repeat what is often said to me by a parent: 'I know of no school anywhere to which I should prefer that a boy or girl of mine should go.'

"If what I have just said needs any demonstration, I have need only to present to you this group of sixteen young men and young women. They have been in the school during its hard years of struggle, they leave just as the dream of the new school is just about to be fulfilled. However, we are not anxious concerning them. We know that they are prepared to cope with the difficult problems of life. The only thing which gives me anxiety is the question as to whether, when we have a thoroughly equipped school, we shall still be able to develop as thorough a fiber and to send young people out into the world as well equipped.

PRESENTS CLASS

"Every young man and young woman who has worked for four long years for a high school diploma takes a great deal of pride in receiving it from the hand of a man of such prominence and character, that they can always remember it with pride. Throughout your lives you will be able to remember that you have received the token of successful completion, of your High School work from the hands of the chairman of the Board of Managers of the School, a man who has achieved for himself a name which is second to none among the Americans in the Orient, and a man to whom we are largely indebted for the new school which is so nearly completed. Without Mr. Dollar we could not have succeeded in the large way in which we have succeeded. Mr. Dollar, it gives me great pleasure to present to you this group of young men and women, the seventh graduating class of the Shanghai American School."

High tribute to the "service" efforts of the eleven boy graduates of the School was paid by Mr. Hawkings in his announcement of the Rotary Club bursaries. The idea of the bursary, he said, came from an Englishman, Mr. Harold Norman, and it was based on the idea of "service," "service, above self," which is Rotary's slogan. In making the award the directors of Rotary had to call for assistance from the School, and the results of a vote of students and faculty had been supplied them. The selection had been most difficult and it was only yesterday—the day of the commencement exercises—that they had got down to two students—and there they had stuck.

The points questioned on were the following twelve—sportsmanship, fellowship, leadership, honesty, pride in the appearance of the school, sense of economic values, 'followership,' courtesy, loyalty, obedience, trustworthiness and service. In all of the these qualifications the two final candidates, as Mr. Hawkings emphasised in humorous and interesting fashion, appeared to be equal. And as the time for the decision drew to a close the judges were forced into a last resort—the tipping of a coin.

When the 20-cent piece cast into the air alighted it was seen that its dictum was in favor of No. 2 on the list—the judges did not know the names of the students whose qualifications were in their hands—and this, as the Rotary President announced after tearing open the envelope inscribed with the number "2", was Alex Moffett. But after the cast had been made, he continued, the judges decided that it was unfair to allow the flip of a measley 20-cent piece decided in such a matter. So the board of Rotary voted to make up among the directors and members a second scholarship of $500 for the tying candidate. Mr. Hawkings tore open the envelope and announced the name of William Lockwood, and in presenting the bursaries to the two young men greeted them in the name of Rotary and congratulated them upon the record each has made in the School.

Mrs. Lacy, in making the award of the scholarship to Miss White, likewise paid high tribute to the latter's school record.

It was announced that the Rotary Club next year will again award a $500 scholarship to the boy student standing highest in the "service" annals of the institution.

INDEMNITY BILL

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 6.—The House of Lords today unanimously passed the third reading of the Indemnity Bill coupled with a motion by Viscount Grey, which was accepted by the Government, affirming "the long-established principle of the Constitution that the Executive should not without the previous special authority of Parliament exercise its power to arrest without bringing to trial by the due process of the law."

The Fear Of Fear

BY THE SPECTATOR

Fear is not so bad. It is the fear of fear that is worse.

There are few things of which we are actually afraid. There are a great many things that we are afraid of being afraid of.

Very few public speakers would have stage fright if they were not afraid of having it.

Stammering is the result of fear. That is, the fear of the fear of stammering.

Few persons would be awkward if they were not afraid of being awkward.

We have all noticed the fact that when we come face to face at last with the thing we have dreaded long we are perfectly cool.

It was not the actuality that affected us. It was the idea that we were going to be afraid of it.

This is true even of death, which is the most fearful thing in the world. We think we are afraid to die. But very rarely is anyone afraid when death really comes. It is not death that worries us. It is the idea that we are going to be afraid.

In an excellent little manual entitled "Autosuggestion and Salesmanship," by Frank Lincoln Scott, I find this:

It is the anticipation of fear that weaken very many otherwise good sales talks. The salesman finds that he really isn't afraid when once he gets into action. The worst thing of all about fear is the fear of it.

It is a curious law of the mind that a picture held in the imagination draws all of our thoughts, words and deeds to it as a magnet draws iron filings.

If you have the picture of yourself running into a telegraph pole as you are learning to drive an automobile, you will probably hit it. If you think of yourself as weak and sick the chances are that you will soon become sick and weak.

This power of the imagination over all the rest of one's personality is that which has been well developed by the teachings of Coue.

For this reason the best way to get rid of fear, which is the enemy of all clear thought and all good work and indeed of all personal charm, is never to allow a fear picture to remain in your mind.

The 'more' we deliberately turn our thoughts to pictures of courage, strength, beauty and efficiency, the more these qualities grow and strengthen in us.

It seems nothing but common sense to say that we cannot make a thing go by merely thinking it is so; and yet, like most of the truisms of common sense, this statement must be criticised and modified.

As a matter of fact, there are a great many things that we can really make come true by simply imagining them as coming true.

And this is especially true in the higher and more important things that concern us; such things as love and loyalty and all moral forces.

These things cannot be directly controlled by the will, but they can be indirectly controlled by the will operating upon the imagination.

Electric Lectures Prove Big Success

The course of lectures for electric truck owners, operators and garage attendants, recently held under the auspices of the New York Edison Company, proved so successful that plans are already under way for its repetition next year. It was the first attempt that had ever been made to give a systematic course of instruction in the principles of the electric truck, and those enrolled, representing many New York business houses, included both employer and employee.

When the course was planned and a fee of one dollar was announced it was hoped that at least twenty-five and possibly forty could be enrolled. But the enrollment exceeded three hundred in spite of every effort to hold it down. Some of the classes were so large that the lectures had to be repeated. The first lectures were held at the Electric Garage, where some laboratory work was included, but after that all the lectures were given in the auditorium of the Consolidated Gas Company Building. The committee which conducted the lectures consisted of representatives of the leading manufacturers of electric trucks and the manufacturers of batteries and representatives from the New York Edison Company. Those representing the company were C. E. Skinner, Jr., B. C. Harris and F. C. Henderschoff.

They Say—

Louis Barthou, President of the Reparation Commission—"We seek neither Germany's death nor her ruin. But we do say that if France is to live, she must be paid. Even though the bailiff has been slow in coming on the scene, why be astonished that he is inexorable when he arrives? We are not relying upon the direct consequences of the peace, as did Bismarck, but are simply exacting the performance of a treaty, drawn up in due and proper form and registered with the signature of Germany. We are doing nothing more than insist upon the direct consequence of a war premeditated, prepared and provoked by Germany. Already the victory is far too much mutilated. The treaty has not given us what we wanted. Let us, then, demand what the treaty does give us, sure and strong in our rights, just in the use of our power."

½ • • •

Annie S. Peck, famous mountain climber and authority on South American countries—"The International Exposition of our greatest New World neighbor is receiving from the people of the United States far less attention than it deserves. Although the appropriation of our Government exceeded that of any other, the United States was uncommonly slow. In spite of the early and large appropriation of $1,000,000, and the appointment of six commissioners at salaries of $625 a month, construction was so delayed that the United States pavilion was not opened until December 23, the last of all except that of Portugal, which was inaugurated the same day. For scenic beauty of land and water, seashore and mountain, Rio has no rival and no peer. We Americans should go there and see for ourselves."

½ • • •

Herbert S. Hadley, former Governor of Missouri—"The situation existing during the last half-century of the pagan era presents, in more ways than one, an analogy to the disorganisation of European civilisation resulting from the World War. The manner in which the dangers of that time were successfully met, and peace and prosperity were secured for the world, makes the history of the Pax Romana of value and importance to the world today. I have always been intensely interested in the study of Roman history as compared with present conditions, the reorganisation of civilisation under the Roman Empire which brought to a war-worn world two hundred years of peace. I have tried to tell America in my new book the truth about a subject which has usually been left to the handling of moralists."

Harbour Notification No. 11 of 1923

With the approach of the typhoon season Mariners are requested to pay particular attention to the moorings of vessels, and to see that when a typhoon threatens the port mooring ropes are doubled up as necessary.

Vessels lying at head and stern mooring berths are very liable to break adrift unless well secured to the buoys.

Chinese Civil Case No. P. 12127

Re: THE NATIONAL COMMERCIAL TOBACCO CO., LTD.
(in liquidation)
(興業烟草公司清理案)

Tenders are invited for the purchase of the following assets of the above Company:—

1. Godown (one storeyed, brick built, tiled roof) situated at No. 478 Kung Hsin Road, Chapei district.
2. Lease of factory (brick built, iron roof, partly two and partly three storeyed) situated at Jiuklang Road, Chapei district.
3. Machinery in Factory.
4. Furniture and Fittings in Factory.
5. Stock of Cigarettes, Boxes, Packets, Wrappers, Paper, etc. in Godown and Factory.

The godown is the property of the company, and they hold a 30 year lease of the land on which it is built, 2 years of which lease have expired.

The factory is not owned by the company, but they hold a lease which expires at the end of the 4th moon of the 15th year of the Republic of China. The landlord is prepared to sell the factory buildings and land either immediately or at the expiration of the lease.

The machinery consists of Tobacco Cutting and Rolling Machines of American, Chinese, and Japanese makes, Electric Motor, Steam Engine, Shafting and Belting, Pumps of English, American and German makes, Fans, Paper Cutting Machines, Moistening Machines, etc.

Tenders, which should be sent to the undersigned on or before 30th June, 1923, may be made for the business as a going concern including all of the above mentioned assets, or for part of the assets.

Before making tenders the premises, etc. may be inspected by intending bidders on application to the undersigned, when full particulars will be given.

Bidders must be prepared to take possession and pay 25% of the price immediately, if their tenders are accepted. The date of payment of the balance will be fixed later.

Exchange Fluctuations

Asia Banking Corporation

June 7, 1923

Spot and forward bar silver were each up 1-16d. in London yesterday. The New York price advanced to 65½ cents and the London-New York cross rate is unchanged at 462¾. Our official rates here this morning were unchanged from yesterday and our market in the early part of the morning particularly, was firm but eased off slightly during the day.

At one time business in Sterling was done as high as 3-1 11-16 for June delivery, 3-1 9-16 for July and 3-1½ for August. Gold Dollars were done at 72¾ for near and forward deliveries.

However, there were more buyers than sellers at these rates and the market eased off particularly for forward delivery and at the close there were no sellers of Sterling at better than 3s. 1½d. for June delivery, 3s. 1⅜d. for July and 3s. 1⅜d. for August.

There were sellers of Gold Dollars at 72½ for near and 72⅜ for forward delivery, and sellers of Yen at 67¾ for near and 67⅞ for forward.

Banks were quoting 3s. 2¼d., 74½ and 1145 for Sterling, Gold Dollar and Franc bills respectively.

India bought silver in London yesterday and the market is reported as closing steady. New York report their market as firm.

Exchange Market

In their weekly report on the Shanghai Exchange market, Messrs. Maitland, Fearon and Brand write as follows:

Exchange:—The London price of silver at 31 11-16d. is 1⅜-16d. lower than last week. The rate for forward delivery is 31⅝d. Our official rate for T-T on London responded with a drop of 1d. to 3-1d., but today what appeared to be an easy market was raised ⅛d. to 3-1⅛d. The rate was however only available for cash delivery.

The open market came into line with official quotations and at the close 3-1⅛ June 3-1⅜ July 3-1 5-16 August was available against resales of gold T-T by local gold dealers.

The tone of the market is uncertain as silver does not show any strength for forward delivery.

Our stocks of silver are reported as follows:—

Sycee and Bar Silver, Tls. 22,119,000 an increase of Tls. 679,000.

Chinese and Mexican Dollars, $32,810,000 an increase of $1,250,000.

Estimated value Tls. 45,742,000 as against Tls. 46,916,000 held at this time last year.

Manchester Guardian Mentions Suspension Of Reiss Bros., Ltd.

Commenting on the suspension of business by Messrs. Reiss Bros., Ltd., the Manchester Guardian notes that during the whole of its existence the firm has been in the China trade. It was in 1920, when every other firm in the cotton industry had to bear losses, that the misfortunes of Reiss Bros. began.

It is stated, in fact, that the present position of the firm is due entirely to the fall in value of the goods which were in the China and Hongkong markets at one time of the slump and to the almost simultaneous decline in the value of silver.

The circumstances were such that customers could not be induced to take up the goods. The China trade has never properly recovered since the slump owing to the chaotic political situation and the prevailing commercial insecurity, with the result that Reiss Bros. have never been able to recoup themselves for their losses.

We are informed that the position of the company is not due to any variation in their methods of business. At the time of the slump they had in foreign markets a quantity of goods which was rather less than customary, but the goods were, of course, much greater in value than in normal times.

Discipline: The Supreme Necessity For Present Educational Institutions Of China

(Contributed by a Chinese Student)

ONE of the momentous questions that confront all educators in China today is that of discipline.

The failure, whether the fault of school authorities or otherwise, to enforce discipline in some of the schools, has produced various unpleasant results.

For instance, when two professors in a school turn against each other, the students are often the immediate tools by means of which one of them ventures to kick the other out. Sometimes, selfish and artful politicians, with a view to enhancing their personal influence, may also play on the excitabilities of students, promoting strikes against school presidents or deans, who have been too straightforward in the performance of their administrative duties.

Consequently, instead of obedient and earnest students, many of our schools have turned out not a few riotous and anarchical tools, who have got accustomed to ousting any one of the school authorities, be he a president or professor, from his position by means of mob rule, thereby venting certain childish grudges or jealousies and, at the same time, marring the general welfare of the school, wherein they have received direct protection and intellectual nourishment. No doubt, therefore, many of our schools are going to the dogs nowadays, in spite of their imposing buildings and rich equipments.

What is discipline? Plainly speaking, discipline means the training for government, orderliness or regulation. Hence there is discipline in the government of an army, a navy, or any other kind of organisation in a country, whether it be of ecclesiastical, social, educational or political nature. The absence of this important spirit indicates, without a modicum of doubt, the failure of that particular institution or organisation to live up to its ideals and become an efficient potentiality for the promotion of the common weal of the community in drilling or training its individuals in the virtues of good government, orderliness and regulation.

China, in her ancient scholastic days of Confucius and Mencius, was especially reputed for the disciplinary spirit of the followers of these two great sages. In those halcyon days the Chinese typical scholar took it as one of his essential responsibilities and undetachable qualifications to be devoted to his parents and obedient to his teachers. He was not allowed to slight his parents' command, nor to look down on his teachers or elders. That was the reason why there were the admonitions to the effect that "the strong-bodied, during their days of leisure, shall cultivate their filial piety, fraternal respectfulness, sincerity and truthfulness, serving thereby at home their fathers and elder brothers, and abroad, their elders and superiors" and that the true gentleman should be he, who "at home, is filial, and abroad, respectful to his elders," in accordance with the spirit of discipline.

Now, where is this pearl of Chinese scholastic virtue to be found? Where is it to be heard of nowadays? Can we find any trace of it in our so-called new and progressive schools of today, with the exception of most of the Christian institutions and a few national colleges and universities? Unfortunately it has lost its commanding influence in the majority of our present schools—this particularly since the introduction of the so-called Student Self Government System, the channel through which they can impeach or oust their school authorities or elders at the dictates of sudden whims or momentary excitements. In other words, the voice of most of our schools belongs to the students themselves, so far as the questions of administration is concerned. Nay, the inexperienced students have actually declared themselves dictators to their school authorities out and out!

Ever since the Student Movement, there has been growing a propensity towards over-progressiveness and self-importance amongst most of our students. In almost any and every school nowadays we have heard the fanatical cries for "liberty, equality and fraternity" and the wild demands for "democracy," which keep ringing boisterously and mobbishly in our ears, and have likewise, witnessed scenes resulting from a partial if not complete misinterpretation of these four words on the part of the over-progressive students. Naturally then, whenever a president has expelled a few students, who have proved themselves to be members of the unruly lot, with a view to maintaining the spirit of discipline, the whole student force of the school concerned has risen up to declare, as it were, a deadly war against him. Likewise, whenever any professor is too strict in the awarding of credits for weekly tests and interterm examinations, they start to oust him as "an autocratic pedagogue" or "an anti-democrat" in pursuance of their childish defiance. To speak frankly, our students have become haughty, pompous and unceremonious.

Of course, such a state of affairs has been brought about by the mad and blind rush for everything over-modern and over-progressive on the one hand, and, at the same time, aggravated by the utter disregard and dire contempt shown on the part of the hot-headed students for the traditional practice of their predecessors in the cultivation of the spirit of discipline, embodying filial piety, fraternal respectfulness, sincerity, truthfulness and submissive obedience to their parents, elders and teachers on the other.

There is no denying the fact, therefore, that this practice of the ancients ought to be given a chance for its immediate revival and that the young students ought no longer to be allowed to exercise free play of their spirit of rowdyism.

Let one and all of the modern educators of China remember that discipline is the supreme necessity for Chinese educational institutions, especially nowadays, and that a mere amount of education minus a sound moral character and the spirit of discipline is nothing more nor less than a white-washed sepulcher! Let every one of us labor with might and main towards maintaining the spirit of discipline, thereby hastening the project of making real men for the nation, and, at the same time, regaining the former prestige and illustrious glory of our ancient scholars and sages!

More Truth Than Poetry

BY S. E. KISER

Lets remember, now and then,
You and I, who, years ago,
Learned what all but foolish men,
Soon or late, are sure to know:
We have passed where others crowd
Eagerly to learn the truth;
Let's remember, and be proud
To assist in serving youth.
There was much we missed and much
That we never now may claim:
Joys have slipped beyond our clutch,
Life is not a schoolboy's game,
But we need not be resigned,
Or, forgetting to be glad,
Fail to help the boys to find
Pleasures that we never had.
We have come by winding ways,
Passing dangers that were deep;
Luck, perhaps, deserves our praise
For the faith that we may keep;
Shall we fail to care at all
Whether they whose hopes are new
Pass with pride, or blindly fall
Where we, somehow, muddled through?
Turning to extend a hand
Where our help is fondly sought
Let us try to understand
Things we long ago forgot.
Everywhere obstructions lie,
Evil still has bright decoys;
Let's remember, you and I,
That we also once were boys.

Balfour Says That Ancient Conflicts Always Mar Anglo-American Co-Operation

BY EARL BALFOUR

For nearly a generation, and under most varying conditions, I have at intervals discussed the subject of Anglo-American relations. Sometimes this has happened in moments of temporary difference, sometimes during the long periods of friendly agreement which have marked our international history, sometimes in moments of ardent exertions in support of a common cause. But whatever the occasion I have preached but one doctrine—and that with ever increasing insistence as time has unrolled the tragic story of the twentieth century.

Let me say at once that in what follows I propose to make no appeal to sentiment. This is not because I think sentiment is to be despised, nor because on this subject I entertain no strong sentiments myself.

On the contrary I happen to be one of those, not too common on either side of the Atlantic, who have always been moved by what I may perhaps describe as an "English-speaking patriotism."

PRE-WAR PAMPHLET

The conviction that the free communities of English-speaking peoples, whether within or without the British Empire, have, whether they know it or not, too much in common to be to each other exactly what they are even to the most friendly nations with a different racial and historic background, is one which I have held far too long to be able now to abandon.

I remember expressing this personal opinion in a pamphlet written before the Great War, when no international problem occupied popular attention in either country, and when I believed myself to be permanently relieved of all public responsibilities.

No advocacy is likely to make converts; indeed, it is quite as likely to repel as to attract those who, to begin with, are indiferent or hostile. The views I desire to put forward I rest on grounds more solid and "objective" than those of sentiment; grounds not depending on individual preference, but upon the permanent facts of national psychology and the state of civilised mankind as it exists today.

Put shortly, my view is this: I hold that the world, as never before, is conscious, however intermittently, that it constitutes a unity, however loosely organised; that it has common interests which may require, however rarely, a certain measure of common action; that it should cultivate an international public opinion, dispassionate, impartial and instructed, capable of working through any form of international machinery, temporary or permanent, now existing or hereafter to be created; and that the English-speaking peoples, if they work harmoniously together, are specially fitted by temperament and tradition to contribute to the realisation of this great ideal.

ANCIENT BARRIERS

My reasons for this opinion I will give in a moment. But may it not be at once objected that however excellent these reasons may be in themselves, the shadows of ancient conflicts, lying as they do across the formative years of American history, will always mar the full perfection of Anglo-American co-operation?

I do not desire to underrate the difficulty. Among the ironies of history few are more tragic than that which, in the great drama of the American Revolution, has made England appear as the enemy of freedom—France and Spain as its defenders. No doubt England brought this on herself, and what did happen could not but happen.

Nevertheless, there is a touch of melancholy humor in the spectacle of the thirteen colonies in their dispute with the Mother Country concerning the proper interpretation of the principles of liberty (a dispute in which they were fundamentally right), fighting side by side with the two Bourbon Governments to whom the principles of liberty on any interpretation whatever whether that of Grenville and North or of Burke and Chatham were utterly and hopelessly repellant.

The reasons for it lie far deeper and are of far more venerable antiquity than any connected with the wars and treaties of the second half of the eighteenth century.

These, to be sure, were important enough. The Seven Years War, when the colonies fought side by side with the Mother Country against France, determined that North America should be English in speech and law from ocean to ocean.

The War of American Independence, when the colonies fought side by side with France against the Mother Country, determined that all organic connection between the United States and Europe should be forever ended. Momentous decisions truly—decisions which have profoundly altered the history of the world.

But one thing (in my opinion at least) they have not altered—they have not altered the fact that the English-speaking peoples, separated though they be by three thousand miles of ocean and some unhappy memories, are capable of a mutual comprehension which neither can attain to the same degree in their relations with other great nations of the European continent.

This does not mean that the English-speaking peoples must necessarily be in friendly co-operation. I wish it did. Still less does it mean that they are heirs of some natural superiority which marks them off from the rest of mankind. The peoples of the world are differently endowed, their contributions to the common stock of civilisation are correspondingly different, and assuredly I am not qualified to weigh them in the balance.

My contention is simpler and more modest. I hold that in addition to the direct and indirect effects of a common language, a common literature, common laws and institutions springing from a common source, there are deep lying identities of character which no political or military conflicts, nor any differences of external conditions, nor any admixture of alien blood, have been able to destroy.

This proposition is obviously incapable either of proof or disproof. But if anyone will consider, not merely the formal side of the political and social machinery through which the activities of any great community find an outlet, but the spirit in which that machinery is used and the purposes to which it is applied, he will be inclined, I believe, to share my opinions.

Sunday Morning Breakfast

BY ROE FULKERSON

"Who was the willowy blonde you were sheiking at the Country Club last night?" asked the Flapper after Sunday morning breakfast was well on its way.

"Lucy," cautioned her mother.

"Let's see you find out," replied her brother Fred to whom she had addressed the question.

"Lucy," continued her mother. "I do not like you to use such expressions. Books like the one you refer to are had enough without my little daughter using their titles as a part of her vocabulary. I trust that you do not read such things and that you will not allow your addition to slang to allow you to incorporate such words in your conversation."

"Atta Boy, Moms," said Fred. "She certainly does sling language."

"I see in the paper," put in father, as he moved his glasses and lowered the Sunday sheet, "that there is a movement among some good people in New York which will eliminate the necessity and the likelihood of our young people reading books like "The Sheik."

"These literary and moral people have formed the Clean Book League and are going to read all novels published so when a book of that type comes out the parents of all young people may be warned and the book kept out of the hands of the young people who might be influenced."

"They are to be reserved entirely for old folks" asked the Flapper innocently.

"Certainly," continued father. "It is in the formative period of life that these books are harmful. I trust, my daughter, you will follow carefully the list put out by these people."

"I certainly shall," said the flapper gravely.

"I am glad indeed to see you at least do not share in the general tendency of our young people to read risque books," said father. "It is a credit to you and I shall remember that you have promised me not to read books which this League advise against."

"Father, I would not deceive you for the world. I made no such promise," laughed the Flapper. "All I promised was carefully to read their list of forbidden books.

"Not only will I read this list but I assure you that almost every one else will read it with great interest.

"You see, Father, with so many books being ground out of the presses of the country day and night it is impossible for one person to read them all. If this League is going to be kind enough to pick out the snappy ones for us it will save us a lot of unnecessary reading.

"I can see hundreds of school girls and boys going into the merry-go-round libraries laying down the League's list and asking the librarian to just let them have any of the books on it.

"One of the best ways of making a book sell largely is to get the Anthony Comstock club or whatever they call it to condemn it. To get a book forbidden to the mails is to fill the express offices so full of them that they have no time to ship eggs and limberger cheese.

"Young folks of today are all looking for a thrill. The boys and girls got it in the war and they find it hard to settle down to humdrum things. Next thing to having an adventure is to read about one and the average boy who is not sitting up nights with a sick poker hand is sitting up nights with a forbidden book.

"The best way to keep a book from being read is to put it into the public library. No one goes there for books any more except school teachers and book agents. But in circulating libraries Wells "Outline of History" is as good as new and the books on the Leagues' 'Thou Shalt Not' list will be worn, dog-eared and people get hurt in the rush every time one of them is to be had.

"Children used to run past a graveyard. Now they shoot craps on the tombstones. Most young folks are so busy teaching their parents how to enjoy life they haven't time to get scared at anything and they are not.

"Long live the League. Long may they review the books so we can read the ones we ought not to read. I hope, Father that you and Mother will not be lead into this sort of literature as it is liable to shock. . ."

"I want to declare myself right now," interrupted her father, rising. "If this league ever gets to work and I can find one of these lists and you reading one of those books I will spank you even if you do think you are grown up."

table institutions, religion, irreligion, modes of philosophic thought, quality of moral judgments, political aptitudes, national ambitions, individualistic preferences.

These are but samples; but does not each one of them suggest points on which, for good or for evil, the English-speaking peoples instinctively resemble each other, and instinctively differ from the rest of the world? Resemblance and differences may be hard to describe, they may successfully defy verbal analysis, but can any competent observer doubt their reality or their importance?

Now I feel sure their reality: but how about their importance? Granting for the sake of argument that resemblances springing from roots so deep make mutual comprehension easier of attainment, is this of any practical value from an international point of view?

That depends in part on how we measure the needs of our war-scarred civilisation. Its wounds are many. The remedies are hard to find and harder still to apply Must we not count among the most serious of the difficulties with which Europe is confronted the absence of that instinctive understanding which, did it exist, might do something to smooth the working of the international machine?

The more we desire that international affairs should be governed by international opinion the more needful does it become to discover somewhere a core round which that opinion might grow and crystallise.

LOVE OF PEACE

It is not I think merely "English-speaking patriotism" which makes me feel that in the formation of that "core" the English-speaking peoples should play a great part. They enjoy many advantages. Liberty among them is of older growth than elsewhere; its fruits are more obviously valuable. And they have besides an advantage due to historical and geographical conditions which no great, and few small, nations enjoy to an equal degree.

Internationally their main desire is peace and the assurance of peace. They have no traditions of departed greatness, or lost lands which through some change of fortune might conceivably be theirs once more. All that is most ideal in their public morals, all that is most utilitarian in their economic life, work together to further their dislike of war. Their combined influence must make for international stability.

Would it not be both a folly and a crime to do, or say, or think, anything which would imperil the possibility of a co-operative effort?

If The Earth Should Collide With Another Planet

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS

Miss "Evelyn W.," of Pittsburgh, Pa., asks what would happen to the earth if another large planet should collide with it. Probably she has been reading about Beta Ceti, and its sudden flare-up. That was evidently a big affair, on no trifling planetary scale, for Beta Ceti is a giant sun. This little earth of ours is too insignificant to make a sensation in the universe by any kind of flareup that it would be capable of. Nobody a few trillion miles away would know anything about it, however tremendous the catastrophe might appear to us.

Still, it would make things hot on the moon if its neighbor, the earth, had a collision with another planet. Indeed, a straightout blow from the moon herself would suffice to turn the earth into a mixture of molten iron and mineral slag.

Most persons, I suspect, never think of the heat that is hidden in motion, though last January and February many enjoyed getting it out into use by slapping their hands and stamping their feet. A collision raises the temperature by turning motion into heat.

Energy is the greatest lightning-change artist that the stage of nature possesses. It has innumerable faces, but whether it masquerades as motion, or as heat, or as electricity, or as brain power, or what not, it is always the same essential thing—a thing that changes form on the slightest provocation, but that cannot be altogether put out or down.

Imagine, then, that the serene-looking moon, on some full-moon night, when the beautiful profile of "the Moon Maiden" brightens its western side, should suddenly start to drop upon the earth. Supposing that the sun did not interfere to spoil the aim, the moon would be about 4 days, 19 hours, 54½ minutes falling, and when it struck the earth it would be moving about 36,000 feet per second!

Now, the force of the blow depends both upon the speed and the weight of the body dealing the blow. Well, the moon weighs about 75 quintillions of tons, which is one eightieth as much as the whole earth weighs. That looks formidable enough; but now think of this—it is not merely the speed but the square of the speed, i. e. the speed multiplied by itself, that has to be reckoned with, and then the square of the speed must be multiplied by the weight of the moving body. Now the square of 36,000 is 1,296,000,000, and the weight of the moon in pounds, (we have to have it in pounds to agree with the other units of the calculation) is 160 sextillions and this multiplied by the square of the speed (velocity) is a number so great that I hesitate to set it down—but you I will because young ladies are often fond of figures; it is 194 million - million - million - million - million!

Now divide that by 64—for a reason which the boys in the high school physics class ought to know—and you get the immense number of "foot-pounds" of energy which the falling moon would have ready to smite the earth with. There are other rules with which I shall not bother you, whereby we find that this amount of energy of motion on being stopped and turned into heat would suffice to melt the whole earth if it were composed of solid iron.

That is what the gentle moon, "sweet regent of the night," could do if she tumbled out of her "silver chair" and fell to the earth. What would happen to the moon herself we may leave untold.

Y. W. C. A. CLASS GIVES PROGRAM THIS AFTERNOON

A program of folk dances, drills and other forms of group recreational activities will be given this afternoon, at the annual demonstration day of the Normal School of Hygiene and Physical Education of the Young Women's Christian Association, in the garden of the school at 38 Kinchow Road. Invitations have been issued to many friends of the Association and those interested in this unique piece of work for the development of Chinese women, and it is hoped that any others who would be interested to visit the school at this time will attend. The demonstration will be held from four to six o'clock. The Training School may be reached by taking a Number Seven, Eight or Nine car from the Astor House to Muirhead Road, then a ricsha down Kwenming Road to Kinchow Road. The Blue Triangle of the Y.W.C.A. stationed at various intervals along the road points the way to the school.

The demonstration is the first of the commencement activities of the sixth class of Chinese young women to graduate from the school and go out into government or mission school or Y.W.C.A.'s as trained physical directors and leaders in hygiene and recreation. There is a two-year course, conducted under the leadership of Miss Vera Barger as principal and a Chinese and foreign faculty. Since this is the only school of its kind in China, many will doubtless welcome this opportunity to visit the plant and see the students in their attractive put-door program. In case of rain the demonstration will be held in the school gymnasium.

Thrills Galore In Sensational Film At Apollo

"Hunting Big Game in Africa with Gun and Camera," a Universal picture which is being shown at the Apollo theater, is a drama of the wilds that forms as fascinating a story as any conceived by the master-creators of fiction. Sixty thousand miles of the dark continent were traversed by the expedition, headed by H. A. Snow, to obtain these startling views of all sorts of beasts from antelopes to zebras, including species seldom seen in museums or zoological gardens.

This is the same picture that ran for three months at the Lyric Theater in New York.

All honor is due to Mr. Snow and his associates for the courage with which they faced not only the perils of charging animals but the even more prevalent dangers of disease and the constant privations entailed by a trip through hundreds of miles of waterless regions in blistering heat. Because the temperature during the day was so high that the film was melted as soon as it touched water, the photographers were compelled to do their developing at night in a special flivver laboratory.

If one is impressed by the bravery of H. A. Snow, whose marksmanship on more than one occasion saved members of his party from death, what must be said for Sidney Snow, the photographer, who stuck to his camera, grinding away with lions, leopards and other preying animals skulking near enough for close-ups of the clearest definition!

In the midst of the most exciting adventures one suddenly realises that during all the hazard the cameraman was there, cranking, cranking, cranking, without the comfort of a rifle butt pressing against his shoulder. Once, when an infuriated rhinoceros, charged straight for him, Snow remained with his apparatus until a moment before the ponderous beast smashed it to bits. Perfect pictures of one hunter firing three shots at the rhino without effect and then the discharge of another man's weapon bringing down the monster are given.

This particular thrill, keen as it is, is overshadowed by a battle with elephants. The party comes upon the creater of an extinct volcano, three miles in diameter. In the cup-shaded depression overrun with vegetation, hundreds of elephants roam, probably never before disturbed by man.

One of the elephants, evidently the leader, towers above the bushes like a prehistoric mastodon. Enraged by the intrusion, the elephants assemble in large groups, surrounding the hunters. One almost hears the thunder of their feet and their wild trumpeting as they lumber toward their quarry. From all sides they come surrounding the little party. A shot from a high-powered rifle sends the giant chief tumbling to the ground. The rest of the herd, in alarm, break and flee for the bushes.

Bangkok's Wireless

A little demonstration of wireless telephony was given in Bangkok the other week to representatives of the local Press, through the courtesy of Mr. C. Kluzer, agent for the Marconi Wireless Telegraph Company Ltd., and Mr. J. M. Poyntz, technical representative of the Company.

For some time Mr. Poyntz has had a station in the administration building of the Siam State Railways and another at the barracks of the Royal Engineers, Bangsue, and it was between these two points that the conversations were established, by kind permission of the Inspector General of the Engineers.

The set used was what is known as "duplex," the latest and most perfect of Marconi's wireless models.

Big Increase In Hongkong Shipping

The annual report of the Hongkong Harbor Master (Commander Beckwith) for the past year shows that the total shipping entering and clearing at ports in the Colony during the year 1922 amounted to 708,244 vessels of 46,566,764 tons, which, compared with the figures of 1921 shows an increase of 35,564 vessels, with an increase of 3,145,994 tons.

A table is given which shows a decrease in British ocean-going shipping of 83 ships or 9 percent and an increase of 441,694 tons or 32.8 percent. This decrease in numbers is due to the sale of the s.s. Halloong to owners outside the Colony, the transferring of the s.s. Burrumbeet and Majoristan to the Chinese flag and to vessels being laid up during the seamen's strike. This increase in tonnage is due to more and larger ships, larger vessels frequenting the port.

Foreign ocean-going vessels have increased by 266 ships, with an increase of 1,463,698 tons of 12,1 per cent. in tonnage. This increase is due to more and more ships, German shipping now frequenting the port and newly built ships, and the transfer of the s.s. Burrumbeet and Majoristan to foreign owners.

The gross revenue collected by the Harbor Department during the year was $857,576.04 as against $800,798.13 collected in the previous year, showing an increase of $56,777.91 or 6.62 percent.

Governments To Hold Opium Meet

(Reuter's Service)

Geneva, June 6.—The resolution, adopted by the League of Nations Opium Committee yesterday, recommended the convocation of an international conference of the Governments of States manufacturing morphine, heroin, cocaine and other drugs, of States producing raw opium and coca leaf, and also the Government of China to consider the limitation of production, export and import to the amount required for medicinal and scientific purposes.

Bishop Brent of the American Delegation said that the resolution marked the largest progress since the opium traffic had become a matter of international responsibility. He congratulated the United States on the happy result of its first official co-operation with the League.

Rescuer Fails To Find Ship That Wirelessed For Aid

(Reuter's Service)

Perth, June 6.—The steamer, Trevean, which rushed to the rescue of the steamer, Trevessa, in response to an S. O. S. has wirelessed that she crossed the Trevessa's position but found no sign of her. The Trevean is now making a zigzag course in the hope of picking up survivors.

The crew of 37 of the Trevessa took to the boats in the Indian Ocean, 500 miles from the nearest land, Amsterdam Island, in heavy seas.

London To Have Biggest Acquarium

London, June 5.—England is soon to have the biggest aquarium in Europe, if not in the world. It is located at the Mappin Terraces in London and will be completed this month. It is to cost half a million dollars.

More than 100,000 gallons of water will be required to fill the tanks, which will contain fish and water fauna from all parts of the world. Natural sea water will be used. This will be brought from the North Sea up the Thames and taken to the zoological gardens in barges.

Possibilites Of British Trade In Far East

Mr. Godfrey Cheesman, General Secretary of the National Union of Manufacturers, in an interview, draws attention to the possibilities for British Trade in the East, and particularly China.

"Undoubtedly there is business to be done," said Mr. Cheesman, and those who have had experience with the Chinese importer in the past know that in practically every case so long as he is given the article he asks for there will be no complaints, and no difficulty in obtaining payment. The Chinese are very particular as regard quality. If a thing is worth having it is worth asking for, and we shall certainly never secure the business in these countries if we do not trouble to visit them and make a strong bid for these are the markets that Great Britain should secure."

INTERESTING WILL CASE COMES UP IN BRITISH COURT

An extremely interesting case arising out of a so-called will was up in the British Supreme Court yesterday before Sir Skinner Turner, when Mr. Tycho Wing, acting on behalf of Dr. George Henry Thomas of Hongkong brought an action against the Crown Advocate of Shanghai. The Crown Advocate was represented by Mr. A. G. Mossop.

The plaintiff claimed to be executor of the last will, dated December 5, 1922, of Tam Kun, alias Henry Thomas, deceased, late of the Ocksey Lighthouse, and under the service of the Chinese Maritime Customs, who died on December 18, 1922. The plaintiff claimed to have been appointed executor under such will.

The writ was issued against the Crown Advocate because he had entered a caveat and claimed on behalf of the British Crown goods of the deceased as bona vacantia. Henry Thomas died a bachelor, the whole of the personal property left by him being valued at not more than £2,500. The plaintiff, who is the foster brother of the deceased filed an affidavit in the Consular Court at Amoy, and the Court at Amoy held that it was not a will. At any rate, an order was issued for the transfer of the motion from Amoy to the jurisdiction of the Shanghai Supreme Court, and on February 6 a citation was issued.

Mr. Wing submitted that which ever way it was considered the document was a good will if Chinese law governed, and similarly according to the Hongkong Ordinance No. 1 of 1856 regulating wills made by Chinese. If the Hongkong law operated it was equally a good will.

The Judge remarked that the will as it stood did not provide for the appointment of an executor, and there was also the further point that the signature was not attested.

Mr. Wing: Under Chinese law that is not essential. Further under Hongkong law it is not necessary as to Chinese wills. That is the clear meaning under the Hongkong Ordinance. The section is applicable to wills made in Hongkong.

The Judge: It does not matter whether the man is domiciled in China or domiciled in Hongkong? If he is domiciled in China you will put in the Chinese law in support and that it is a good testament. If he is domiciled in Hongkong you will put in the same defence.

Mr. Wing: Yes, as regards the appointment of an executor. By the tenor of the instrument the executor is a person directed to perform and execute the will.

The Judge: Does it come to this: That any document which instructs an individual to pay the debts of a deceased person and to afterwards carry out that without naming him as executor authorises the Court to make him Executor for the Court?

Mr. Wing: Yes, if a person is authorised to do such things as are done by an executor it is so.

Mr. Mossop: The attitude of the Crown Advocate in this matter arises, as far as I understand, under the provisions of Article 23 of the Order-in-Council. It arises with all property of a deceased person situated in China and the devolution thereby in case of intestacy, which is to be regulated by the laws of England. If the document is held as a will then there is no difficulty. I will not look to your Lordship to decide that any British subject in China is at liberty to make a will in accordance with the law of China merely because he is resident in China, apart from the fact that he domiciled here.

The Judge: If you do not draw a distinction between an extra-territorial country and otherwise you have the Congo Free State case to get over.

Mr. Mossop: I will not go so far as to agree with my learned friend that even if the deceased had no domicile in China the Court in England would have granted probate. I offer no argument to this point, and I would not go so far as to agree with him.

His Lordship said that in view of the fact that most of the assets had already been distributed it would be sufficient for the purpose if at the moment he allowed an application to be made for probate. He felt that something more should be done with regard to the affidavits.

HONGKONG ASSESSMENT

A new valuation of the whole Colony of Hongkong has been made and the rateable value has thereby been increased from $19,805,929 to $21,059,700, an addition of $1,253,543 or 6.33 percent.

The number of tenements reported to be vacant last year averaged about 75 monthly, as compared with 95 last year.

In the ten years 1914,1915 to 1923-1924, the rateable value of the Colony has increased by $6,646, 597 or 40.50 percent.
